About the Department of Psychology

Profile

Our department enjoys an excellent reputation in research and teaching where students benefit in several ways:
- Research results continuously influence our teaching which means you are up to date on research developments.
- Small tutorial groups accompany most lectures and provide dedicated advising and teaching quality at a high level.
- Close collaborations with external partners in teaching and research, allowing you to experience first-hand knowledge in our courses.

Research Focus

Our department is one of the most active and successful psychological departments in research. The focus of the department takes in regard the future challenges in basic research and teaching. The department contributes to the growing significance of neuro- and social sciences in our society. A detailed list of previous research projects can be found here: Research Projects

Degrees

Current Study Programs: At our department we offer a four-year and a three year Bachelor's Program in Psychology, as well as a one-year Master's Program in Psychology. The three-year (polyvalent) Bachelor's degree in Psychology, was adapted to the Psychotherapy Act (PsyChThG), and was implemented at the University of Konstanz in WiSe 2021/22. WiSe 2023/24 we plan to introduce the two-year Master's Program in Psychotherapy and the two-year Master's Program in Psychology with focus on research and practice.
